

Statement of Purpose

Successful people wake up and they've already planned their day, while unsuccessful people are scrambling to figure out what they need to do next. Their goals are very focused, big yet obtainable and are aligned to their strengths. They know what they are capable of and will invest all of their efforts in it, avoiding their weaknesses. I appreciate the chance to write this inspiring letter outlining my objectives for joining your university in Denmark to further my studies. I've chosen to major in business, thus in order to accomplish my objectives, I want to strengthen my business skills, which I will gain from your college.

I, Subash Ghimire, a permanent resident of Ghimire Gaun, 03 Siranchok, Gorkha, Nepal holding a Nepalese passport number 12432925 and was born on 23rd March, 2002. From my childhood I am an obedient, hardworking student, have curiosity and imagination about my future, have an effective oral and written communication, leadership skills.

Regarding my academic background, I graduated from New Speedy English School in Ratnanagar in 2018 A.D. with a 3.15 GPA. I then carried on with my higher education at Aroma English Secondary School, where I graduated in 2020 A.D. with a cumulative grade point average of 2.99. I always intended to attend internationally renowned universities or colleges, therefore I studied for the PTE. After thorough preparation, on February 27, 2022, I took the PTE exam and received an overall score of 55 with each band including at least a 48, which is widely recognized at foreign institutions and colleges. After that, I started looking into several nations in an effort to determine the ideal location for my subsequent studies and finally discovered and decided to study in Denmark.

I've heard that Danes are among the happiest people in the world. The welfare system in Denmark, which offers free and equitable access to services like healthcare and education which is a cornerstone of the Danish social system. The welfare system aims to achieve economic equality in society, practically zero corruption, and low crime rates. Similar to that, it is renowned for being one of the most brilliant and cutting-edge higher education systems in Europe. Any subject to study in Denmark will be required to live up to the highest academic standards recognized worldwide. Danish higher education institutions also commonly collaborate with businesses, sectors, and research institutes to create dynamic learning settings where students may learn directly from subject-matter experts. In addition, several programs provide students with the opportunity to do credit-bearing internships, giving them the ability to get valuable professional experience (<https://studyindenmark.dk/why-denmark>). Additionally, higher education in this country combines traditional lectures and tutorials with training that will enhance my capacity for problem-solving. Through open dialogue and problem-based learning strategies, I will be motivated to express yourself, seek out experimentation, and work with others. Denmark's classrooms are friendly and relaxed, and during lectures, professors and students actively debate various subjects. Along with academic brilliance, working on group projects with other students will allow you to make new friends from all over the world.

I picked Niels Brock Copenhagen Business College to pursue a BSc (Hons) in Business Studies after doing a thorough search among many Danish colleges and institutions. I personally believe that this college is the best fit for me for a variety of reasons, but one of the main ones is that I will have an advantage over my competition because I will graduate from one of Denmark's most prestigious institutions and receive a degree affiliated with the United Kingdom at the same time, which is much more difficult to obtain globally. The aim of Copenhagen Business College is to have a substantial impact on societal, cultural, and economic growth in the future. This institution is a good fit for me since it will allow me to broaden my knowledge via study and real-world experience rather than depending simply on classroom instruction. I like the variety of undergraduate, graduate, and doctoral degree options this university offers. I can get a business degree for an overseas graduate while enrolling in the Bachelor of Business Studies program at Copenhagen Business College. I will be prepared for a variety of roles in major national and multinational corporations as well as small and medium-sized organizations after successfully completing a course at this college. The degree seeks to produce graduates who are equipped for the workforce in the twenty-first century by combining current practical and professional abilities with relevant academic theory. International business degrees are highly sought-after in the contemporary global economy. This program will teach me a lot of transferrable skills that I can use at work. Students will not only get these abilities but also a solid theoretical foundation in areas like marketing, human resource management, global strategy, intercultural ethics, and others. We will be prepared for an interesting work in the global market by qualified instructors with years of expertise in international business.

I want to pursue a career in business after completing my education in Denmark. It will help me identify my advantages and disadvantages in a certain area. I'd like to begin with a modest business and progress to a big organization. My goal is to become well-versed in the business faculty. I want to start my career at a small-scale company and work my way up to a large-scale organization. I wish to work as a businessman in Nepal using the advanced information I've learned from this university and the nation, where there are skilled people. I aim to enhance Nepal's business climate and encourage people to believe that commerce can spur innovation. A bachelor's degree is required to fulfill this aim. My objectives are to learn how to influence modern people with business clichés, to become more pragmatic in business, and to better comprehend the role of work in my life.

Finally, I am eager to join Copenhagen Business College. If given the chance, I would take advantage of it with great joy and honor to assure my continued academic success.
